

- A. An engine down here. _____ back here and hook onto the front of the train taking up the hill, get up to Grandview or he would go in the hole there and let the train go on down and then he would go on down the tunnel and
- C. Where does this go here?
- A. This, just down there. See the engine sign. Yeah that just turn the engine around.

Grandview cabin post 25. Grandview site down approximately one-half mile from existing relief cabin in ruin. Evidence of milled lumber built and planed, screening. Structure ON slight grade. Beyond recognition. Structure seems to sit on slight rise approximately 40 yards ^{WEST} from railroad track. Evident fire damage. Evidence of creosoted pilings. According to Charlie, the Road Commission, the railroad didn't start driving pilings until the 40s.

↑ foundations are obvious.

- A. The railroad was buying.

Interview w/ Charlie Reinwater, Aug 1980, RR. employee