HUT MAINTENANCE TRIPS

Sept. 18-21—Stu Grenier is leading a work party to

Rosie's Roost (Eklutna Traverse) to perform some maintenance on the Hut. The group will be accessing the Hut from the Girdwood side via the Milk Glacier to the East Fork of the Eagle. Anyone interested should call Stu at 337-5127 as soon as possible.

October 10-13—A work party is tentatively scheduled to work out of the Serenity Hut over the weekend. Brushing the trail, splitting and stacking firewood, removing fixed lines, and human waste system at Pichler's and Hans' Huts will be attended to. The limit for this work party trip is 8-12 people. Only a very small, fast, and select group will be making the run on Pichler's and Hans' Huts if the weather is accommodating. Please contact Hans Neidig via email (hansn@mtaonline.net) if you are interested in assisting on this trip.

TRIP REPORTS

Das Pioneer - Part III

The abrupt burst of a wide-open jet engine sucks my attention upwards. "Avalanche! Avalanche! Avalanche!" I scream as a white wave thunders toward us.

Ringo and I plaster our bodies against the gully wall, like lizards on a tree. The snow torrent roars by us, just feet from our sandwiched bodies.

Seconds seem like minutes as we wonder about George and John who are out of sight down the gully. As the roar tapers to hiss, I begin yelling again.

"We're OK," comes from below. Thank God! "But John's pack is gone". Glancing down next to my feet, my Whippet pole is also gone, a sacrifice to the snow tsunami.

Our sense of urgency to exit this north gully on Pioneer now heightened; I put Ringo back on belay. We comment that slightly different timing probably would have led to the demise of Ringo, same as the real John. He descends into a narrower section of gully to place another belay station. I strain my hearing and vision for any more jet sounds and errant waves.

Perhaps abandoning the climb earlier would have been prudent as attempts to exit the gully were difficult. Ringo tried to lead up a steep pitch in the gully on wet and icy rock he described as 'crap held together by moss'. Down-climbing is never a pleasant experience. I tried a sidewall lead but also aborted and down-climbed until reaching a section where a slide on rock would be likely. Instead, I leapt back into the wet snow-filled gully. I utilized this technique one more time when the snow failed on another gully exodus route. Perhaps there is something practical to the movie Vertical Limit.

Ringo, with me tailing, found a sketchy route out of the gully that simply accomplished separating the group. During the process of reuniting with the group, the natural avalanche occurred.

After belaying and rappelling the 'Fab Four' are reunited. We briefly swap stories, but don't sing, then urgently down-climb the now-seeming extensive gully. George does an excellent job descending considering he has no crampons as they were swept away.

Out of the gully and onto leveler slopes, we retrieve our gear that is 'garage-saled' over a half mile distance. We discuss in hindsight that there were signs of snow instability, such as fairly recent activity. Two of us that have tried this route before decide to wait until next winter to try again. We are most thankful to be walking away from this climb.

ENLARGE YOUR PHOTOS

For the Mountaineering Club of Alaska's 2004 Photo Calendar

We're looking for every MCA member's favorite hiking and climbing photos for the 2004 MCA Calendar. Packed with information on local peaks, club events, and the very best of your photos, the 2004 MCA Calendar will be better than ever!

So be sure to grab your camera as you head for the hills, because it's time for our Photo Contest.

Photo Contest Rules:

- Any current (2003) club member is eligible to enter.
- Photos should be hiking- or climbing-related and be somewhere in Alaska.
- Only horizontal (landscape orientation) photos will be accepted. Save your portrait-oriented photos for a future calendar.
- A club member may enter ONE photo in each of the four categories:

Hiking ~ on-the-trail, off-the-trail, ridge-running, stream-crossing, bushwhacking, or scree-scrambling travel

Climbing ~ your wildest action or most aesthetic scene while climbing on rock, ice, snow, or glacier

People ~ your half-crazed, half-dazed, or half-amazed friends — go ahead and shoot your fellow club members!

Scenery ~ your best photo of a choice campsite, stunning sunrise or sunset, or majestic mountain scene

- You may submit any size print (5x7 or 8x10 recommended), but it must be received by the September meeting. Either drop it off at a meeting or mail it to: MCA Photo Contest / PO Box 102037 / Anchorage AK 99510-2037
  - All entries remain the property of the photographer; MCA is authorized to publish the photo for use in the calendar only. After judging, you may pick up your photo entries at any meeting.
  - Attach a note card to the back with the following information:

Your name, address, and telephone

---

Category and title of the photograph

---

Any interesting details about the photo that might be published in the calendar

(was it a club trip, local area, club members, when and where was it taken, etc.)

---

- Be prepared to provide a paragraph or two describing the photo if your picture is selected to appear in the calendar.

Judging Procedure:

- Photographers' names will be kept confidential throughout the judging process, we will cover up the information on the back and issue each photo a sticker with a judging number, the category, and the title that you provide.
- If necessary, the Club Officers and Directors will narrow down the entries to the top 10-15 photos in each category. This will only be done if necessary to make the final judging process possible within the general meeting time constraints. Our criteria will be a combination of photo quality, content, scenery, composition, humor, unique situations or events, adventure, being in the right place at the right time, and being just plain 'fun to look at' (not necessarily in that order).
- Final judging will take place during the October meeting. All members in attendance will be issued a ballot to select their top three choices from each category, plus one "Bonus" selection. Results will be announced in the November Scree. Winning photos will be published in the calendar, along with as many other entries as we can fit in.
