

Hypertext Links within the Online Article:

"Arsenic Exposure on University of Alaska Anchorage Campus Leads to Removal of Taxidermy Collection"

by Murat Demir

Contributions by Matthew Schmitz and Hannah Dillon

Published in:

The Northern Light (Anchorage, Alaska), March 4-March 31, 2025, pages 1 and 4, and published on the newspaper's website February 13, 2025.

The websites listed below are hyperlinked to certain text within in the electronic version of this article published in the college student newspaper The Northern Light. These links do not exist or are listed in the printed paper version, but may be of interest to the reader of either the print or online version. Otherwise, no textual differences exist between the two versions.

Article:

- Internet address to the The Northern Light online article posted February 13, 2025:

<https://www.thenorthernlight.org/stories/arsenic-exposure-on-university-of-alaska-anchorage-campus-leads-to-removal-of-taxidermy-collection>

The online article is not hosted on the ARLIS Document Server due to copyright.

Links within the article:

- "It had gained media attention for the circulation of its Furs, Mounts, & Skulls taxidermy collection."

<https://www.arlis.org/docs/vol1/A1/ARLIS/ARLIS.html>

- "UAA EHS removed the collection from ARLIS in June 2023, according to previous reporting by The Northern Light."

<https://www.thenorthernlight.org/stories/arlis-removes-taxidermy-collection-out-of-an-abundance-of-caution>

- "According to a document on the ARLIS website from 2017, ARLIS began circulating the collection to the public in May 1998."

This hyperlink goes to a chapter of a book that is copyrighted. The posting, therefore, has been removed, and thus, the link is currently broken. The chapter referred to is:

"Things Collections, Alaska-Style: Furs, Skulls, Mounts." This is Chapter 15 (which composes all of Part IV on special libraries) of the book: Audio Recorders to Zucchini Seeds : Building a Library of Things. Mark Robison and Lindley Shedd, editors. -- Santa Barbara, California : Libraries Unlimited, c2017.

This chapter available in ARLIS at these call numbers:

|                   |                  |
|-------------------|------------------|
| Z688.N6A93 2017   | The whole book   |
| Z733.A44R744 2017 | Chapter 15 alone |

Internet access to the book requires a licensed subscription (usually by the library providing access through its catalog using a subscription service).

---

This sheet is supplied by Alaska Resources Library and Information Services (ARLIS).