Case #

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

AFFIDAVIT OF PRO SE PLAINTIFFS

NATURE OF CASE

1. This is a class action arising from the oil spill in Prince William Sound, Alaska on March 24, 1989. This non-native action is brought on behalf of all residents of the State of Alaska, who reside in the watershed areas-from Cape Douglas to Unimak Pass. SPENCER

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

2. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C., Sec. 1331 and principles of pendent and ancillary jurisdiction.

3. The claims arise under 43 U.S.C., Sec 1653 (c), the federal common law, Alaska Statutes 46.03.822-828 and 09.45.230, and the principles of common law.

4. Venue is proper in this district because this district is the site of the spill, and the district where a substantial portion of the injuries occurred. Plaintiffs reside in this district. The defendants reside in and/or do business in this district

PARTIES

5. Plaintiffs, W.B.T.J. Sigler, Stephen Pidgeon, Donald A. Ferguson, Judy Whitson, and Marlene Sharon Lay are all Mon-Mative residents of the State of Alaska, residing in Anchorage. All have lived, enjoyed, recreated, fished, relaxed, and travelfed within the geographical area known as the spence and Unimak Pass, utilizing in their own ways, the virgin beauty of the land, the waters, the animal and plant life of the area, as well as the totality of an untouched wilderness which was unique. All, except Whitson, have resided with, taken, or directed their children and/or grandchildren to this same geographical area, for their own use and enjoyment as well. 6. Defendant Exxon Corporation is a New Jersey corporation with its executive offices in New York. Exxon owns and controls the oil which was transported by the Exxon Valdez and spilled into the Prince William Sound.

7. Defendant Exxon Shipping Company, a subsidiary of Exxon, is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Texas. Exxon Shipping Company owns and operates the tanker Exxon Valdez.

8. Defendant, Alyeska Pipeline Service Company is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Alaska. Alyeska is a consortium of eight oil companies, including Exxon, which owns and operates the Trans-Alaska Pipeline System, and the shipping terminal facilities at the Port of Valdez, Alaska. As the agent of the oil companies, Alyeska is responsible for maintaining an oil spill contingency plan for emergency response to spills in the Sound, including coordination of clean-up.

9. Defendant Joseph Hazelwood is an employee and agent of Exxon Shipping, and the Captain of the Exxon Valdez when it ran into the reef in Prince William Sound.

10. Defendant Gregory Cousins is an employee and agent of the Exxon Shippping, and the third mate of the Exxon Valdez when it ran onto Bligh Reef.

11. Defendants John Doe Company and John Doe, an individual, are potential Defendants who might have contributed to the damages suffered by the Plaintiff class in this action. Should their identities become known, the complaint will be amended to reflect their true names. Should no other Defendants be found, the John Does will be dismissed.

CLASS ALLEGATIONS

12. The named Plaintiffs bring this class action pursuant to Rule 23(b)(1), (b)(2), and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure on behalf of themselves and on behalf of a class consisting of all persons, their children, and grandchildren, who are residents of the State of Alaska, $SPE_{HC} = R$ living within the geographical area between Cape Houghas and Unimak Pass, who have resided, recreated, fished, enjoyed, travelled through, visited, and otherwise utilized the land, the waters, the animal life, and the totality of the virgin environment within that area, or who had a reasonable expectation of doing all of these things in the future, because their parents or grandparents had chosen to reside in that area.

13. Members of the Plaintiff class are so numerous that joinder of all members as named Plaintiffs is impractical. While the exact number of class members is unknown to Plaintiffs at this time, and can only be ascertained through discovery, Plaintiffs believe that there are over 280.000 members of said class.

14. There are questions of law and fact common to the class which predominate over any questions solely affecting individual members of the Plaintiff class. Among the questions of law and fact common to the Plaintiff class are: a) Whether any or all of the Defendants violated federal laws, state laws, and the common law.

b) Whether any or all Defendants are strictly liable or whether they breached a duty of care owed to the class.

c) Whether Defendants acted wilfully, recklessly, negligently, or otherwise, in allowing the oil to spill, or in response to the oil spill.

d) Whether Defendants, any or all, misrepresented or suppressed material facts concerning their capacity to respond to massive oil spills.

e) Whether members of the class have sustained damage and, if so, what is the proper measure of damages.

f) Whether punitive damages should be awarded, and if so, in what amount.

15. The claims of the named Plaintiffs are typical of the -claims of the entire class. There are no conflicts among members of the class regarding the subject matter of this litigation.

16. The named Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interest of the class. Plaintiffs are negotiating to retain counsel who is experienced in complex class action litigation. It is expected that a large number of Pro Sc Plaintiffs will move this Court to join in this litigation as named Plaintiffs, with the expectation that a large number of litigants will be able to retain counsel to competently represent not only the named Plaintiffs, but the entire class, as well.

17. A class action is superior to other available means for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy, since joinder of each and every member of the class is impractical. Furthermore, since the damages suffered by individual class members may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation makes it impossible for individual class members to redress the wrongs done to them.

FACTS COMMON TO ALL CLAIMS

18. On March 23, 1989, more than a million barrels of oil were loaded onto the Exxon Valdez at the Alyeska Pipeline Terminal Facility.

19. After sailing, the Exxon Valdez departed the Port of Valdez. As the ship navigated through the Valdez Narrows in Prince William Sound, the Master Joseph Haraelwood laidbelow and improperly transferred the helm to Gregory Cousins, a third mate who was not qualified to navigate in that area.

20. At approximately 12:28 a.m. on March 24, 1989, the Exxon Valdez grounded on Bligh Reef, a lighted hazard well outside the shipping lanes south of Valdez.

21. Tests done on Defendant Hazelwood more than ten hours after the accident showed that he had a blood alcohol level which significantly exceeded Coast Guard regulations. Hazelwood was discharged by Exxon and he has now been charged with criminal offenses in connection with operating a motorcraft while under the influence of alcohol.

22. Exxon Shipping as owner of the Exxon Valdez, and Exxon, knew or should have known that flazelwood had an alcohol abuse-problem, as Exxon had previously been sued for flazelwood's conduct while under the influence. At the time of the accident, Hazelwood's driver's license was suspended because of a DWI charge in the State of New York. Furthermore, Exxon knew, or had reason to know that local community groups in Valdez had expressed concern about crewman boarding supertankers while intoxicated.

23. The grounding holed the vessel, releasing 11 million gallons of crude.

24. Following the spill, authorized representatives of Exxon and Exxon Shipping admitted responsibility for the spill and resulting damage.

25. At the time the pipeline was completed, Alyeska promised concerned citizens of the area, including those involved in recreational fishing, hunting, sightereeing, and other use and enjoyment of the area, that the tanker's would be designed to min⁴mize spills through design features such as double bottoms. Alyeska also promised an adequate containment protocol.

26. Equipment was not ready and there was no contingency plan. When Exxon Valdez grounded, the barge had been dry docked for some time, its booms ashore. Alyeska failed to notify authorities that the barge was out of service. Accordingly, workers did not board Exxon Valdez for too long a time, exacerbating damages. Other resources were not available and there were virtually no properly trained personnel to respond to the grounding.

27. Alyeska has reduced its spill response protocol:

a) A full time professionally trained crew was gradually eliminated, replaced by dock and office workers with no experience or training with oil spills,

b) A chartered 218,000 gallon capacity barge, designed to take oil from spill sites, was replaced by a much smaller barge which was too badly damaged to be used.

c) Modern self-inflating booms designed to contain oil slicks immediately were not available for 24 hours.

d) A full time oil spill coordinator, which Alyeska - promised to keep in Valdez was no longer stationed there.
 28. Accordingly, Alyeska was unable to respond to, contain and clean up the spill from the Exxon Valdez.

DAMAGES

29. Coastal Alaska and surrounding area is one of the most biologically rich ecosystems in the world and one of the most environmentally sensitive. It is one of the worst hydvocaRBodlocations imaginable for a mutable bonzene infiltration. (oil 3) It is the crossroads for huge migrations of fish, birds. and shore animals. Algae, fungi, bacteria, and other microscopic animals in the food chain have been lost.

30. The effects of the spill are expected to damage the sport fishing, the casual recreation, the animal life, and the beauty of the area for many years. The Plaintiffs, who have enjoyed, and who expected to enjoy the untouched, pristine state of the area in the future, will now contend hydrochegod with an area saturated with benaone pollution. (the oil spill) 31. The Defendants conduct was willful, wanton, malicious and so outrageous as to justify the award of punitive and/or exemplary damages against them.

CAUSES OF ACTION

32. a) Federal Common Law of Nuisance. Defendants' activities in causing and allowing release of the oil into Prince William Sound and the surrounding environment constitutes a nuisance under federal common law. As a direct and proximate result, Plaintiffs have been damaged.
b) Strict Liability Pursuant to Alaska Statutes Sections 46.03.822, et seq.

Pursuant to those statutes, defendants are jointly, severally and strictly liable, without regard to family, for all damages suffered by Plaintiffs as a result of the oil spill.

c) Nuisance. Pursuant to Alaska Statutes Sec. 09.45.230, Defendants' activities in causing the release of the oil into the surrounding environment constitutes a private nuisance. As a result, the Plaintiffs have been damaged.
d) Strict Liability--Ultra Hazardous and/or abnormally dangerous activity. The oil loading and shipping activities engaged in by Defendants are inherently dangerous to the ecological environment. The use of single hull supertankers to transport the oil is so inherently dangerous that this activity is likely to cause severe contamination and damage.

Defendants are jointly, severally and strictly liable, without regard to fault, for transporting oil under conditions which were inherently, or unreasonably dangerous.

e) Negligence. Defendants, who each owed Plaintiffs a duty of care, negligently and carelessly navigated into a lighted hazard, failed to assure the competence of the ship's master, utilized unsafe and improper methods including single hulled vessels, and failed adequately to prepare for or respond to contain and clean up the oil spill. The negligent conduct of the Defendants has proximately caused the contamination of the land mass and waters previously utilized and enjoyed by the Plaintiffs.
f) Defendants intentionally or negligently misrepresented to Plaintiffs and others, material facts about the safety of the supertankers, and the competency of the crews. Defendants also knew that they were not equipped and they were unprepared to respond to a massive oil spill in Prince William Sound, but failed to warn Plaintiffs or state and federal authorities of these facts. These misrepresentations were made with the intent to induce the Plaintiffs to rely up the adequacy of the Defendants' conduct.

As a direct and proximate result of this reliance, the Plaintiffs suffered substantial damages.

JURY DEMAND

Plaintiffs demand a trial by jury.

The Plaintiffs ask for the following:

A determination and certification by the Court that this is a proper class action suit maintainable under Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

2. General and special damages to the Plaintiffs in the amount of 3.4 Billion dollars.

Punitive damages in the amount of 6.8 Billion dollars.
 Costs of suit, including filing fee, service fees, costs of notice, and attorney's fees to the Plaintiffs.

PLAINT1FFS

NATURE OF CASE

1. This is a class action arising from the oil spill in Prince William Sound, Alaska on March 24, 1989. This action is brought on behalf of all residents of the State of Alaska, who furnish goods and services to persons employed in or residing in the area of spill contamination, 1) by virtue of providing goods and services from their own places of business, or 2) by virtue of personal drumming activity in that area, which-results in an order or purchase of goods or services.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

2. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C., Sec. 1331 and principles of pendent and ancillary jurisdiction.

3. The claims arise under 43 U.S.C., Sec 1653 (c), the federal common law, Alaska Statutes 46.03.822-828 and 09.45.230, and the principles of common law.

4. Venue is proper in this district because this district is the site of the spill, and the district where a substantial portion of the injuries occurred. Plaintiffs reside in this district. The defendants reside in and/or do business in this district

5. Plaintiff, W.B.T.J. Sigler, is a licensed pilot who owns his own airplane. He has been doing business in the geographical area of the oil spill, by flying merchants in and out-of-that area with equipment to be sold, sorvieed, or delivered. He also flies tourists to and from the locations of the oil spill. He now expects his commercial activity in that area to be substantially diminished.
6. Plaintiff Stephen Pidgeon is a trained musician. He has been hired to entertain in some of the areas affected by the oil spill. He now expects that his work in that area will be substantially diminished because of decreased commercial activity in the area of the spill.

7. Plaintiff Donald A. Ferguson is in the business of inspecting, maintaining, installing, selling, and/or brokering of fire and safety equipment. Fire safety consideration on fishing and other types of vessels has led him to conduct business in the area of Prince William Sound. and the other areas affected by the spill. He now expects his yearly income to be substantially reduced.

8. Defendant Exxon Corporation is a New Jersey corporation with its executive offices in New York. Exxon owns and controls the oil which was transported by the Exxon Valdez and spilled into the Prince William Sound.

9. Defendant Exxon Shipping Company, a subsidiary of Exxon, is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Texas. Exxon Shipping Company owns and operates the tanker Exxon Valdez.

10. Defendant, Alyeska Pipeline Service Company is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Alaska. Alyeska is a consortium of eight oil companies, including Exxon, which owns and operates the Trans-Alaska Pipeline System, and the shipping terminal facilities at the Port of Valdez, Alaska. As the agent of the oil companies, Alyeska is responsible for maintaining an oil spill contingency plan for emergency response to spills in the Sound, including coordination of clean-up.

ll. Defendant Joseph Hazelwood is an employee and agent of Exxon Shipping, and the Captain of the Exxon Valdez when it ran into the reef in Prince William Sound.

12. Defendant Gregory Cousins is an employee and agent of Exxon Shippping, and the third mate of the Exxon Valdez when it ran onto Bligh Reef.

13. Defendants John Doe Company and John Doe, an individual, are potential Defendants who might have contributed to the damages suffered by the Plaintiff class in this action. Should their identities become known, the complaint will be amended to reflect their true names. Should no other Defendants be found, the John Does will be dismissed.

CLASS ALLEGATIONS

14. The named Plaintiffs bring this class action, pursuant to Rule 23(b)(1), (b)(2), and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure on behalf of themselves and on behalf of a class consisting of all residents of the State of Alaska, who are merchants, drummers, or other providers of goods or services to the persons residing and/or working in the area of the oil contamination.

15. Members of the Plaintiff class are so numerous that joinder of all members as named Plaintiffs is impractical. While the exact number of class members is unknown to Plaintiffs at this time, and can only be ascertained through discovery.

16. There are questions of law and fact common to the class which predominate over any questions solely affecting individual members of the Plaintiff class. Among the questions of law and fact common to the Plaintiff class are: a) Whether any or all of the Defendants violated federal laws, state laws, and the common law.

b) Whether any or all Defendants are strictly liable or whether they breached a duty of care owed to the class.

c) Whether Defendants acted wilfully, recklessly, negligently, or otherwise, in allowing the oil to spill, or in response to the oil spill.

d) Whether Defendants, any or all, misrepresented or suppressed material facts concerning their capacity to respond to massive oil spills.

e) Whether members of the class have sustained damage and, if so, what is the proper measure of damages.

f) Whether punitive damages should be awarded, and if so, in what amount.

17. The claims of the named Plaintiffs are typical of the claims of the entire class. There are no conflicts among members of the class regarding the subject matter of this claims of the class regarding the subject matter of this claims.

18. The named Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interest of the class. Plaintiffs are negotiating to retain counsel who is experienced in complex class action litigation. It is expected that a large number of Pro Se Plaintiffs will move this Court to join in this litigation as named Plaintiffs, with the expectation that a large number of litigants will be able to retain counsel to competently represent not only the named Plaintiffs, but the entire class, as well.

19. A class action is superior to other available means for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy, since joinder of each and every member of the class is impractical. Furthermore, since the damages suffered by individual class members may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation makes it impossible for individual class members to redress the wrongs done to them.

FACTS COMMON TO ALL CLAIMS

20. On March 23, 1989, more than a million barrels of oil were loaded onto the Exxon Valdez at the Alyeska Pipeline Terminal Facility.

21. After sailing, the Exxon Valdez departed the Port of Valdez. As the ship navigated through the Valdez Narrows in Prince William Sound, the Master Joseph Hazaelwood laid below and improperly transferred the helm to Gregory Cousins, a third mate who was not qualified to mavigate in that area.

22. At approximately 12:28 a.m. on March 24,

Exxon Valdez grounded on Bligh Reef, a lighted hazard well outside the shipping lanes south of Valdez.

23. Tests done on Defendant Hazelwood more than ten hours after the accident showed that he had a blood alcohol level which significantly exceeded Coast Guard regulations. Hazelwood was discharged by Exxon and he has now been charged with criminal offenses in connection with operating a motorcraft while under the influence of alcohol.

24. Exxon Shipping as owner of the Exxon Valdez, and Exxon, knew or should have known that Hazelwood had an alchol abuse problem, as Exxon had previously been sued for Hazelwood's conduct while under the influence. At the time of the accident, Hazelwood's driver's license was suspended because of a DWI charge in the State of New York. Furthermore, Exxon knew, or had reason to know that local community groups in Valdez had expressed concern about crewmon boarding supertankers while intoxicated.

25. The grounding holed the vessel, releasing 11 million gallons of crude.

26. Following the spill, authorized representatives of Exxon and Exxon Shipping admitted responsibility for the spill and resulting damage.

27. At the time the pipeline was completed, Alyeska promised concerned citizens of the area, including those involved in providing goods and services to the residents and employees there, that the tankers would be designed to the resident to the tankers would be designed to tankers would be design minmize spills through design features such as double bottoms. Alyeska also promised an adequate containment protocol.

28. Equipment was not ready and there was no contingency plan. When Exxon Valdez grounded, the barge had been dry docked for some time, its booms ashore. Alyeska failed to notify authorities that the barge was out of service. Accordingly, workers did not board Exxon Valdez for too long a time, exacerbating damages. Other resources were not available and there were virtually no properly trained personnel to respond to the grounding.

29. Alyeska has reduced its spill response protocol:

a) A full time professionally trained crew was gradually eliminated, replaced by dock and office workers with no experience or training with oil spills,

b) A chartered 218,000 gallon capacity barge, designed to take oil from spill sites, was replaced by a much_smaller barge which was too badly damaged to be used.

c) Modern self-inflating booms designed to contain oil slicks immediately were not available for 24 hours.

d) A full time oil spill coordinator, which Alyeska promised to keep in Valdez was no longer stationed there.

30. Accordingly, Alyeska was unable to respond to, contain and clean up the spill from the Exxon Valdez.

DAMAGES

Coastal Alaska and surrounding area is one of the most 31. biologically rich ecosystems in the world and one of the most environmentally sensitive. It is one of the worst hy tro carbon locations imaginable for a mutable bonzone infiltration (oils) It is the crossroads for huge migrations of fish, birds. and shore animals. Algae, fungi, bacteria, and other microscopic animals in the food chain have been lost. 32. The effects of the spill are expected to damage commercial fishing of all types, put tour boat operators out of business, reduce tourism, as well as reduce all forms of commercial activity in the area. The Plaintiffs, who are providers of goods or services to the persons in the area of the oil spill will now have their incomes substantially reduced because of this limited commercial activity.

33. The Detendants conduct was willful, wanton, malicious and so outrageous as to justify the award of punitive and/or exemplary damages against them.

CAUSES OF ACTION

Pursuant to those statutes, defendants are jointly, severally and strictly liable, without regard to fault, for all damages suffered by Plaintiffs as a result of the oil spill.

c) Nuisance. Pursuant to Alaska Statutes Sec. 09.45.230, Defendants' activities in causing the release of the oil into the surrounding environment constitutes a private nuisance. As a result, the Plaintiffs have been damaged.
d) Strict Liability--Ultra Hazardous and/or abnormally dangerous activity. The oil loading and shipping activities_engaged in by Defendants are inherently dangerous to the ecological environment. The use of single hull supertankers to transport the oil is so inherently dangerous that this activity is likely to cause severe contamination and damage.

Defendants are jointly, severally and strictly liable, without regard to fault, for transporting oil under conditions which were inherently, or unreasonably dangerous.

e) Negligence. Defendants, who each owed Plaintiffs a duty of care, negligently and carelessly navigated into a... lighted hazard, failed to assure the competence of the ship's master, utilized unsafe and improper methods including single hulled vessels, failed adequately to prepare for or respond to contain and clean up the oilspill, and/or failed to utilize available radar warning systems to prevent the accident. The negligent conduct of the Defendants has proximately caused the contamination of the land mass and waters previously utilized and enjoyed by the Plaintiffs.

f) Defendants intentionally or negligently misrepresented to Plaintiffs and others, material facts about the safety of the supertankers, and the competency of the crews. Defendants also knew that they were not equipped and they were unprepared to respond to a massive oil spill in Prince William Sound, but failed to warn Plaintiffs or state and federal authorities of these facts. These misrepresentations were made with the intent to induce the Plaintiffs to rely up the adequacy of the Defendants' conduct.

As a direct and proximate result of this reliance, the Plaintiffs suffered substantial damages.

JURY DEMAND

Plaintiffs demand a trial by jury.

The Plaintiffs ask for the following:

 A determination and certification by the Court that this is a proper class action suit maintainable under Kule
 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Punitive damages in an amount awarded by the Court.
 Costs of suit, including filing fee, service fees, costs of notice, and attorney's fees to the Plaintiffs. lu Β. Dated: Dated:_ Dated:

15. ALYESKA PIPELINE SERVICE COMPANY controls the loading and transportation of oil from the Port of Valdez and is responsible for containment and cleanup of oil spills associated with that loading and transportation in Prince William Sound.

16. The EXXON VALDEZ was carrying approximately 53 million gallons of crude oil.

17. Approximately twenty-five miles from Valdez, the EXXON VALDEZ ran aground the Bligh Reef. At the time the EXXON VALDEZ ran aground it was under the command of an intoxicated, incompetent Master, JOSEPH HAZELWOOD. As a result of the tanker running aground it sustained damages and more than eleven million gallons of oil leaked from the tanker into the water, surface and subsurface land of Prince William Sound.

18. Said spill has damaged and will continue to damage Plaintiffs in at least the following respects: diminution in the value of their vessels, permits, real estate and other property; destruction of the marine environment with consequent loss of the fisheries upon which Plaintiffs depend; interruption and interference with Plaintiffs' business; loss of enjoyment of life; and emotional and mental distress.

19. Plaintiffs' damages were proximately caused by the torts described herein for which the defendants are liable in the sum of not less than $500,000,000.00.
