Schermeyer's R.H.

(20 miles from Elitard)^{p. 212} Schermeyer was an old timer, a gentle old fellow who had never been a gold miner but had operated the roadhouse for years, catering to the traveling public in the winter and maintaining a hothouse in which he grew tomatoes and cucumbers and other vegetables in summer. (p. 213) - (icehouse ^{with sawdust in the walls}, also located at the roadhouse). (Ab. Journal, Vol. 5, No. 4, pp. 211 + 216).
