addition. Roof structure same. Six pane window, steep end up. New unit seems to be some kind of a living residence quarters. _____ corner notch or Hudson Bay corner. Drop siding south side of structure. Not sure whether frame or log under. New addition not peeled. West side of old structure double logged wall, sod inbetween, approximately, I take that back, looks like an additional Wanigan addition with a shorter gable.

Bob Bliss, _____, send a copy of management plan when prepared. General Delivery, Unalakleet.

Ungalik Roadhouse, cabin in ruin. Site with a cache probably a later period. Cache has evidence of fish nets, lead line, built with logs part, the bottom part. Top part built with plank wood, perhaps an older cache with a newer top. Log walls constructed with single dove-tailed corners. Hand blazed _____ inside to flatten wall surfaces, suspect possible wall covering inside. Main purlin to secondary purlins with G-poled roof, probably sod, evidence of galvanized tin laying around the structure. Fronts on an old bed, perhaps an old river bed _____ going through area.

Foothill Roadhouse in ruin. Established in 1920, ran until approximately 1931, called Eben Roadhouse. Previous roadhouse perhaps discussed by Goodwin was found on the beach in front of Bessum Slough. No evidence or remains of structure. I think we found Ebens as shown on map. _____ structure if, not even sure it is the structure however if it is there is evidence of pile of _____ ruins, deteriorated to the point that it is unable to definitely tell whether ruined or not. Unable to land due to thick undergrowth.

- I. I think so, straight probably. Could be more.
- S. You think there was an old roadhouse right there? Do you remember what the name of it was?
- I. Ivanoff's. _____
- S. We have been talking here a little bit. I rapped on the window for you but.
- X. I heard you but I didn't know exactly what.
- S. That was me, huh. Let's see, I wrote your name down and I've lost where I wrote it here. Sankie Charles. This is Dwayne.
- X. Hi, pleased to met you.
- I. My boy is in the Navy.
- X. Oh, he is, well he must be a good guy then.
- I. We're finding out that Isaacs Point that we looked at is a newer one. The ruin is up the hill a little bit.
- I. Right in the corner _____ place.
- X. So it's more towards the ridge after all then.
- S. We have a name here that it's called Bonanza Roadhouse.
- I. That's Paul Hopps.
- S. That's Paul Hopps, that's the same thing. And that was at Ungalik you think, OK.

- I. Long time back, you know they used to call it Bonanza.
- S. That's what they used to call it.
- I. And then later on they changed it to _____.
- S. Oh, is that right?
- I. It should be _____. You know those big mining outfit they named it Ungalik.
- S. See there is a bridge up there and there is a fellow, mining engineer from Fairbanks thats lived there for a long time I guess.
- I. I wrote his name down. Hablis(?)
- S. And that was a regular, the Bonanza Roadhouse then was the regular roadhouse? His wife you think may still be alive.
- I. She's still alive down in Anchorage area some place. Her name is Eva. She's got her last name now.
- S. And the race still comes right, does it come through here or do they still cross the point on the race? They run the coastline, they don't go across?
- I. They'll come across if the ice is smooth enough; if it is rough they will go on the beach.
- S. _____ checkers or something.
- I. Yup, mostly check before. I think I was checking last winter. _____
- S. Do you know, we have a report that there was roadhouse also at Egavik, do you know or is that too far south. Do you know about that?
